1. On the morning of 3 April 1952

the jeep collided with a Soviet truck carrying five Chinese Communist soldiers, which was coming from the direction of Wonsan, at a road junction about two kilometers north of P'yongyang. The chief of the P'yongyang Internal Affairs office was killed instantly and the others in the jeep were injured. The body-guard began a heated argument with one of the Chinese Communist soldiers, and both he and the chief of the Administration Section were killed when one of the soldiers jumped off the truck and without warning began firing his PPSH at them.

2. The incident was witnessed by a number of North Korean farmers and residents of nearby villages who had gathered at the scene of the wreck, and word of the shooting spread quickly throughout the surrounding area and P'yongyang. Because of the incident, there is much antagonism toward Chinese Communist troops in the area. The propaganda sections of both the North Korean Labor Party and the Chinese Communist army in Korea are concerned over the increasingly widespread ill will which has resulted and have ordered their organizations and associated groups to initiate an extensive campaign on the theme of North Korean-Chinese Communist unity to counteract the effect of the incident.
